

Mother-ease™ - Wash & Care Instructions

Wash First – Wash your nappies at least twice with hot water and a regular strength detergent before using them for the first time (see return policy on washed products). To minimise lint accumulation, wash no more than 8-10 new nappies per load at the highest water level.

Used Nappies

- Wet nappies go directly into the nappy bucket, no rinsing is necessary. Soiled nappies are rinsed in the toilet, then put into the nappy bucket.
- When the bucket is full, dump the nappies directly into the washing machine.
- Pre-rinse or do a short cycle with warm water and detergent. Use the detergent you use for the rest of your laundry (without bleach).
- Wash the nappies on a full cycle, at highest water level, using hot water, and your household detergent (without bleach). Bleach can be very harsh against your baby's skin and may damage the nappy's fibers and elastics.
- Avoid the use of fabric softeners or use just a small amount. Over use may result in reduced absorbency.
- The washed nappies may either be line dried or dried in the dryer on medium heat.

Used Covers

- Machine wash in warm water using your household detergent (without bleach) and tumble dry on low, or line dry.
- Do not wash or dry with Velcro products, Velcro hooks will snag binding. Close Rikki covers before washing or drying.

Helpful Notes and Hints

Waterproof Covers – Use over cloth nappies to prevent leakage. Can usually be used 3-4 times before washing, provided they aren't soiled.

Line Dried Nappies – Line drying in the sun is an excellent way to naturally bleach and sanitise your nappies. You can soften up your line dried nappies by placing them in your dryer for a few minutes.

Nappy Bucket – We recommend “dry-pailing” your nappies to reduce smell and eliminate water hazards. When dry-pailing you do not put any water in your nappy bucket in the nursery. Soiled nappies must be rinsed before dry-pailing. All nappies should be rinsed at the end of the day if not washed.

Nappy Bucket Odors – If storing your nappies in water, to reduce odors and stains add ½ cup of your detergent (no bleach). To keep your nappies smelling fresh, change the water in your bucket daily. Disinfect occasionally. Set odor may be difficult to remove.

Environmental Detergents – Some “environmentally friendly” detergents may not have sufficient cleaning power to properly disinfect nappies. Odors set due to insufficient cleaning strength may be difficult to remove.

Disposable Liners – To simplify the clean up of soiled nappies, disposable liners may be laid into the nappies.

Nappy Stains – Rinse soiled nappies promptly in the toilet to minimise stains. Disposable liners (see above) or Mother-ease™ Stay Dry liners will also help. Should you have tough stain, you can use a detergent with “non-chlorine bleach”. Cleaning agents such as these may affect the life of fabrics, use only on an as required basis. Remember, stains are stains only and are not hazardous to your baby's health.

Nappy Rash – A number of factors can cause nappy rashes. The first thing to try is more frequent nappy changes. Should the problem persist it may be due to a build up on washing detergent in your nappies. Add a cup of vinegar to the final rinse cycle of your wash to remove excess detergent.
